

"LAST DAYS OF POMPEII" AT THE LAMARA TODAY

Classic Reproduction of Bulwer Lytton's Novel, Feature of Popular House.

It is nearly a hundred years ago that Lord Bulwer Lytton wrote "The Last Days of Pompeii," and during all that time it has survived as one of the greatest romantic novels in the world of literature, and still holds marvelous fascination for hosts of readers.

George Kleine has just produced a photo drama of the novel which will doubtless live for many hundreds of years to come and be shown upon the screen ages hence as evidence of the wonderful development of the art of photography in these times.

Mr. Kleine's production was made in Italy and visualizes all the most important incidents of the story with vivid realism. The heartrending tale of the great love of the blind flower girl, Nydia, for her handsome master, Glaucus, and her terrible suffering when she learns lone has won his heart are all brought out with telling truth. The tragic results of her efforts to win his love with the use of the love philtre the wicked Arabesque gave, and which destroys Glaucus' reason, is dramatically illustrated. And the final episode showing the awful catastrophe of the eruption of the mighty volcano of Vesuvius with its clouds of ashes, flame and smoke, completely destroying Pompeii is reproduced with spectacular grandeur that is awe inspiring and impressive.

Taken as a whole it is one of the most remarkable photo dramas that has ever been produced. Mr. Kleine's production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be the attraction at the Lamara theatre, beginning today for two days with matinees.

SMOKING IS FIRST SERIOUS ISSUE IN NEW LEGISLATURE

Hon. Frances Willard Munds of Yavapai Says Let Men Smoke; It Will Keep Them From Being Cross and Peevish, But—

"Abolish smoking on my account? Not if I know it! I certainly hope the men will smoke. It will soothe their nerves and keep them in good humor. When my husband gets cross, I run for his tobacco and even fill his pipe," said Hon. Frances Willard Munds, of Yavapai, first woman state senator in Arizona.

"Do you smoke?" "No; neither do I chew gum nor did I bring my knitting down from Prescott," and the energetic little woman did not look like "fancy work" would occupy many of her moments in the weeks to come. She was at her desk in the senate chamber of the state house early yesterday morning engrossed in her mail, closely typed letters from well known men and women from all over the state.

"I fought for equality, and I hope I'm consistent. When the question of smoking came up in caucus I asked that it be continued," declared Mrs. Munds, who for fifteen years headed the suffrage cause in Arizona.

The Hon. Mrs. Munds declares she has no special axe to grind but all laws pertaining to women and children will receive her closest attention.

"I have been in conference with many prominent educators throughout the state for 'education' is my chief interest. The Teachers' association is desirous of legislation relative to certain changes in the state law, and if their views coincide with my own, I will do my utmost to carry them out," she said in her determined manner.

"Are you going to be aggressive?" "Oh, no, of course not, but—" and her laugh gave another meaning to her words.

She is enthusiastic and brimming over with eagerness "to get down to business." She is vitally interested in the land policy of the state, in fact all her interests are "vital."

"A democrat, progressive but not radical," is the way she describes her politics. Best of all, she says, is the way she "gets on" with Hon. Morris Goldwater. "I am in perfect harmony with the senior member of Yavapai. We are as congenial as a married couple."

"Modern or model?"

"Newly," she quickly replied.

Mrs. Munds has been appointed chairman of the committee on education and public institutions, and to serve on the following committees: Judiciary, constitutional mandates and enrolling and engrossing.

"LION AND THE MOUSE" PLEASURES AT COLUMBIA

Ed Redmond's Presentation Most Pretentious of Present Engagement

Ed Redmond's presentation of the famous Charles Klein play, "The Lion and the Mouse," which is the first of the week offering at the Columbia, found Miss Audell Higgins as Shirley Rossmore, and Mr. Hugh Metcalfe as John Ryder, dividing honors in the most pretentious offering of the engagement.

The story of the crabbed king of finance and his dethronement by the cleverness of the girl whose father he has ruined, is too well known to need mention, save that it served last night as a vehicle to bring out much that has combined to make the Redmond players the biggest favorites of the season.

Mr. Metcalfe's John Ryder was a

Hon. Rachel Berry of Apache Isn't for Third Woman in Legislature; She's Against "My Lady Nicotine;" Causes Nerves

No personal privileges should be permitted and smoking should be tabooed in the house of representatives, according to Honorable Rachel Berry of Apache, first woman member of the lower house of an Arizona legislature.

"If smoking were abolished it would be a benefit to mankind. It's all nonsense about tobacco quieting the nerves. If the men did not use it they would not be nervous."

It was said in a quiet, dignified way that stamped the speaker an earnest reformer yet one not seeking notoriety by freak legislation. Anything of a sensational nature would be absolutely foreign to the "lady from Apache," who only wants to do what is right without any publicity.

"I do not think we should work for personal gain for we are merely agents. Whatever is best for the county and the state will have my sincere support. Naturally I am concerned in the laws that affect women and children, but am deeply interested in educational measures."

The Hon. Mrs. Berry arrived at the state house but a few moments before the house convened. She was greeted warmly by those who knew her, but aside from the members from the north, she did not seem to have a large acquaintance.

While her surroundings were unfamiliar and the atmosphere rather "smoky," Mrs. Berry was thoroughly at her ease.

"Back home," in St. Johns, she is exceedingly popular. The calm, dignified woman has many followers and was a factor to be reckoned with in the suffrage campaign. She is said to have won as many votes for political equality as any one woman. She is an ardent prohibitionist and is devoted to the cause.

RED CROSS NURSE AT THE EMPRESS

The Empress, under new management, continues to please the crowds, that nightly throng the old playhouse. Monday and Tuesday of this week, the feature will be the Columbia Film, entitled the "Red Cross Nurse." The story is not as the title would have one think, the story of a modest hard working nurse in a field hospital, but the film deals with the most thrilling adventures of a girl who has fallen in love with a Serbian army officer, but who is forced to join his colors with the army then engaged in war with Turkey. In order to be near her lover, the heroine joins the Serbian army as a nurse, but discovers a Turkish spy among her wounded charges. Discovering the plot of the spy to betray the Serbian army, she follows him to the Turkish headquarters, where she is taken for a spy, and put in prison. She escapes, obtains an aeroplane by a ruse, and makes for the Serbian lines. Upon arriving there she is fired upon, but saved by the armor of the machine.

The young officer in love with her is there to meet her and their romance is happily ended with his father giving his consent to their marriage.

bit of characterization that will live for many moons in Phoenix. As the "Lion of the Pit," he is seen in a part that fits him like a glove. Miss Higgins with her winsomeness opposite the rugged maker of millions is an excellent foil and showed to advantage in the scenes wherein she winds the financier around her finger. Roscoe Karns, as the son of Ryder, which is a thankless part at best, satisfied his following in the pretty love scenes with the girl, who proves the master of his astute father. Miss Hammond, as Kate Roberts, and Ben Erway as Bagbee, the confidential secretary of Ryder, supplied several pretty comedy scenes incidental to the story, while Ed Redmond, as Judge Scott, found it difficult to make the audience take him seriously. The comedian has gained such a hold on the Phoenixian who loves comedy that the seat holder thinks when Redmond speaks "it is to laugh," no matter what the part.

members of the house. Anti-suffrage efforts are directed by Mrs. Arthur Dodge, president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, assisted by a committee of that organization. Anticipating a record-breaking attendance, the doorkeeper and sergeant-at-arms, made extra arrangements for the crowd.

ATTACHE IS POET—Joe Lazore, elected as assistant doorkeeper of the house, is known over the entire state as one of the old war horses of the democratic party. But few people know that he is a poet of no mean ability. A book of poems dealing with the pioneer days of the state was issued by him several years ago and the first edition has been exhausted. He is author of "The Hobo Miner."
